CALIGO'S CROW

Caligo's Crow is the story of a young, lonely prince struggling to find his place amongst an unloving family. One day, as he's wandering through a dark forest, he encounters a crow who opens his heart and teaches him about friendship.

The toddler character design shows his innocence, care-free attitude, and casual nature, As he gets older, he becomes more solemn and formal under the weight of his family's control.

THIALA

Thiala was a holy woman; a human cleric of the sun god Pelor. Her greed and disdain for her fellow heroes leads her to betray her pact with Pelor. She throws herself into a bloody rampage, seeking worship and fear as she ascends to godhood.

Her costuming is a mix of plate armor and formal wear, combining her desire to wage war and maintain a pristine image. The emblem at the center of her stomach is a corrupted version of Pelor's holy symbol.

FIA BOGINYA

Fia, a half-orc child, was placed on trial by her father and other religious extremists for her crime of using magic. She faced certain execution, but was saved by the mad witch Bathilda who now raises her in an abandoned train car deep in the forest. While Fia is now safe from persecution, she is often left alone to study and play with the local fairies in the absence of her caretaker.

In her teen years, Fia takes up sword training to protect herself in solitude. Her clothes and hair are ragged from her years in the forest.
