VOLUNTEERING IS A WORK OF HEART!

201 E 97th Street - www.savannahafricanartmuseum.org 912.721.7724

The Savannah African Art Museum is looking for volunteer docents with good communication skills to lead tours for diverse groups - from elementary school children to older adults. This is a wonderful opportunity for volunteers interested in learning about the history and art of West and Central Africa.

Internship programs are also available to students who are interested in a career in the arts and fields related to museums. In addition to developing skills through projects within the museum departments, interns participate in content training and interact directly with the museum's guests by leading tours through the curated galleries. Offered internships are year-round in 10 week intervals and are flexible with academic schedules.

Come join us at Savannah's most unique cultural museum!

CONSERVATION OUTCOMES

How the ABC supports proactive conservation projects

Creating Protected Areas and Ensuring Sustainability

At the pinnacle of ABC's Bird Conservation Framework, we work to prevent extinction of the Western Hemisphere's most endangered birds, creating and sustaining protected areas to provide essential habitat and reducing threats to birds within those habitats.

Fifteen bird species have gone extinct in the Americas and U.S. Pacific Territories since 1968, most in Hawai'i. These species are the Agulhan Reed-warbler, Alagoas Foliage-gleaner, Atitlan Grebe, Bishop's Oo, Bridled White-eye, Colombian Grebe,

Only 18 percent of the most threatened species can be considered effectively protected from extinction at present. *Based on studies by the Society for Conservation Biology.

Cryptic Treehunter, Guam Flycatcher, Guam Reed-warbler, Kamao, Kauai Akialoa, Kauai Oo, Least Vermilion Flycatcher, Pagan Reed-warbler, and Pöouli.

Five more bird species have been declared extinct in the wild but survive in captivity: the Alagoas Curassow, Guam Kingfisher, 'Alala (Hawaiian Crow), Socorro Dove, and Spix's Macaw. (Reintroduction efforts are underway for some of these species.)

Scientists believe that an additional 17 bird extinctions have been averted by conservation intervention since 1994 (the year ABC was founded).

According to BirdLife International scientists, there are currently 263 IUCN-Red Listed Endangered (EN) and Critically Endangered (CR) bird species in the Americas and U.S. Pacific Territories.

For 189 of these, habitat loss is considered the principal threat. Thirty-six have 500 or more individuals in one or more protected area/s, affording those species significant protection against imminent extinction; 179 have some protected populations, but 10 have no protected populations at all.

The remaining 74 species are primarily threatened by other factors, such as invasive species, for which equivalent extent of protection metrics are not yet available.

1 BIRD CONSERVATION | WINTER 2024

With partners, as of the end of 2021, ABC had supported the acquisition/protection of 1,192,401 acres of land at 103 sites in 15 countries, with 51 partners. We have also supported the planting of 6,813,945 trees and shrubs in reserves and buffer areas.

In total, 2,900 bird species have been recorded in ABC-supported reserves (66% of all bird species found in the Americas).

ABC has supported new and expanded reserves for some of the Americas' most endangered birds including:

ABC worked with the Convention on Biological Diversity and the governments of Brazil and Mexico to make government protection of additional EN and CR species confined to single sites (AZE sites) a global policy priority.

With GECI, ABC has supported the removal of cats from Socorro Island, Mexico, to help save the Townsend's Shearwater from extinction.

Better for Cats, Better for Birds, Better for People

Domestic cats (Felis catus) can make wonderful pets. But cats that roam outdoors, can have serious consequences.

Across the globe, cats have been introduced into new habitats by people with terrible results. Outdoors, cats are a non-native and invasive species that threaten birds and other wildlife, disrupt ecosystems, and spread diseases.

Now numbering well over 100 million in the United States, cats kill approximately 2.4 billion birds every year in the U.S. alone, making cat predation by far the largest source of direct, human-caused mortality to birds.

Our Cats Indoors program educates the public and policy makers about the many benefits to birds, cats, and people when cats are maintained indoors or under an owner's direct control. In addition to advocating for responsible pet ownership solutions, we also oppose Trap, Neuter, Release (TNR) for feral cats because of the persistent and severe threats posed by these cats on the landscape.

We're leading a movement to overcome local and national challenges caused by roaming cats through science-based policies and management. We invite you to join a growing network of diverse stakeholders, such as animal shelters, veterinarians, wildlife rehabilitators, and conservation biologists, as we build a future that is better for cats, better for birds, and better for people.

Looking for Practical Solutions to Keep Your Cat Safe While Protecting Birds?

FENCE CONVERSION

Turn your existing fence into a cat safe fence. These straightforward options modify existing structures to create an escape-proof kingdom for your cat to explore.

BACKPACKS AND STROLLERS

Travel in style with your cat in a comfortable backpack or stroller.

ENRICHMENT AND PLAY

Variety is the spice of life! Keep your cat happy and healthy with fresh and engaging activities.

AUDIO ALERTS

Noise-emitting devices worn by your cat may reduce the opportunity for direct harm to wildlife.
